Orientation and Development Plan for New Faculty

1442 AH

➤ Introduction:

The Executive MBA program seeks excellence in the teaching and learning processes. So, the program is keen to improve and develop the skills of new faculty members from the beginning to achieve excellence in teaching performance and highlight competencies.

The skill development plan for new faculty members in the Executive MBA program aims to provide training and induction programs that serve new faculty members to develop their entrepreneurial spirit. Which contribute to the development of their skills and the development of the educational process to raise the level of educational service within the program. This is within the framework of achieving the goals of the university and the college to serve the community and to achieve the Kingdom's Vision 2030 aimed at activating the role of Saudi universities to achieve economic and social development.

The axes of the training and introductory programs were identified to meet the need of the new faculty members to know what the work in the program is and how to deal with the technology used in the educational process and the regulations and laws that regulate the work in EMBA the program.
